Finotex Honduras moves to a brand new facility

February, 2009 — Choloma, Honduras — Finotex Honduras announced today the inauguration of its brand new production facility located in Choloma, Honduras; the apparel production hub of Honduras. The company currently services the local and foreign apparel markets in providing a full package of brand recognition products. This new facility is a two story building, 120,000 square feet large and is home to its state of the art technology and its Finotex Honduras team. “This expansion was absolutely necessary as the demand for our products and services have increased remarkably ever since the company started operations in the country in October of 2002”, said a company’s spokesperson. With the inauguration of this brand new facility, Finotex fully renews its commitment to label manufacturing excellence and to ongoing development in the management of quality products.
